Transportation Museum to Screen “Grease” as Part of Outdoor Film Series

Tuscaloosa, Ala. - The City of Tuscaloosa will screen “Grease” at the Mildred Westervelt Warner Transportation Museum on Friday, Nov. 9. Community members can bring lawn chairs, blankets, picnics and friends for the one-night-only screening beginning at 7 p.m.

The 1978 classic movie will be projected onto a 45-foot theater screen behind the museum on Tuscaloosa’s historic Queen City Pool. Admission is $5 per vehicle/group. No alcoholic beverages are allowed, but patrons are encouraged to bring snacks and beverages for a family-friendly evening in the park.

Audience members are encouraged to dress up as T-Birds or Pink Ladies and enter into our “Grease” costume contest for the chance to win tickets to upcoming events along the Black Warrior River.

For more information about scheduling educational programs at the museum, tours and group rates, or inquiries about renting the museum and park, please contact the museum directly at (205) 343-2391, or visit the website at www.mwwtm.com.
